

Tamás Födi is a senior chemical engineer at eChemicles, contributing to the development of the world's first containerized low-temperature CO₂ conversion system.

He holds a PhD (2019) in Chemical Engineering from the Budapest University of Technology and Economics. Expert in the field of organic chemistry, continuous-flow chemistry, electrolyser system design, system integration and process engineering.